

Movies Like Interstellar For Those who like Unique Sci-fi Movies: Christopher Nolan's Interstellar, which delivered a fascinating and emotional journey from a plot that explores extremely complicated theoretical ideas, was a smashing blockbuster in the frequently narrow and contentious category of science-fiction space drama. Since then, many of the film's fans have been wondering if there will ever be a sequel, but in the meantime, there are a handful of fantastic modern films that hold themselves to the same high standards, in addition to a number of classics that had a significant impact on the story and overall feel of the film, that can be enjoyed right now. These space movies, like Interstellar, are the best examples.

Movies Like Interstellar For Those who like Unique Sci-fi Movies

1. The Martian
2. First Man
3. Sunshine
4. Inception
5. Gravity
6. Ad Astra
7. Oblivion
8. Tenet
9. The Fountain
10. Looper

The Martian

*Movies Like Interstellar For Those who like Unique Sci-fi Movies - The Martian

The Martian, another masterpiece from director Ridley Scott, starring Jessica Chastain and Matt Damon. Even while Interstellar also includes both of them, the two movies are very different. Despite this, the plot and imagery are equally excellent. The Martian features astronaut Mark Watney after he is abandoned by his crew during a mission and finds himself all alone on, you guessed it, Mars. Mark encounters a number of unsettling incidents while attempting to thrive on the red planet, some of which are humorous and others not so much. The Martian is primarily a very compassionate story of survival, mixed with a number of serious scientific topics, from attempts to produce food to contact Earth. This movie is fantastic since it has a lot of action, humor, and touching scenes.

First Man

First Man

Thematically, high-quality space films of the era of Interstellar frequently dealt with emotional detachment; Damien Chazelle's biographical story about Neil Armstrong's historic mission to the moon, for example, placed a strong emphasis on the famous astronaut's mental state throughout the mission. First Man is transformed from being a straightforward recounting of the incidents of the Apollo 11 mission to a potent and striking story that shared dedication to visual consequences and methods with Interstellar that makes both movies feel more palpable. This is accomplished by viewing the happenings of the Apollo 11 mission via Armstrong's coping or absence thereof with the unfortunate loss of his young daughter.

Sunshine

*Movies Like Interstellar For Those who like Unique Sci-fi Movies - Sunshine

Sunshine and Interstellar could be compared, at least in terms of the intellectual theories that both films looked into. It was developed by Alex Garland, who is also known for the films Annihilation and Ex Machina, and it centers on a group of global astronauts who are sent on a mission to save the dying Sun by injecting a nuclear charge into the core. However, as is typical of such plots, things quickly derail. Sunshine has a very sophisticated plot and is fairly rich in sci-fi elements and distinctive visual effects. It involves a squad of people from all around the world working together to do the necessary tasks rather than just one individual attempting to save the world. It's fairly simple and seems fun to watch.

Inception

Inception

Inception's inclusion on this list is justified by the fact that it is yet another outstanding creation by Christopher Nolan. The plot centers on Dominick "Dom" Cobb, a skilled burglar who obtains information from victims by penetrating their subconscious minds. The novel is set in a hypothetical universe. One of his victims, a Japanese tycoon, promises Cobb the chance to clear his criminal record in exchange for using "Inception" to implant someone else's concept into their head. Naturally, this has a lot of troubling ramifications. It has all the elements of a classic sci-fi film: stunning photography, creative action, and hypnotic graphics. It is incredibly cerebral.

Gravity

*Movies Like Interstellar For Those who like Unique Sci-fi Movies - Gravity

Gravity, directed by Alfonso Cuaron, is one of the tensest films of the decade. When things go wrong on a regular flight, it includes 2 astronauts named Matt Kowalsky and Ryan Stone. They have little chance of returning to Earth because they are stuck in the great regions of space unless any of them gives their life in order to save supplies for the other. A single astronaut must struggle to survive while wracked with grief and the desire for emotional distance amid the frigid void of space. If you enjoy space dramas, you just must see Gravity, a visually stunning and emotionally compelling film that features one of Bullock's most astounding performances.

Ad Astra

Ad Astra

Brad Pitt plays an astronaut in the James Gray-directed, co-written, and co-produced film Ad Astra. The narrative centers on Roy McBride, who embarks on a quest to locate his father, H. Clifford McBride, who is thought to have perished on a space station in Neptune's orbit. Risk to life on Earth and throughout the solar system arises from Clifford's hunt for intelligent life in outer space. To save the planet, Roy needs to get in touch with him. Ad Astra tackles an emotive father-son story and important existential concerns that are sure to make your head spin, even though its foundation is a sci-fi and the film shares many similarities with Interstellar. Watch it for the great graphics.

Oblivion

*Movies Like Interstellar For Those who like Unique Sci-fi Movies - Oblivion

Oblivion ought to be the next film you watch if you enjoyed Interstellar and you enjoy sci-fi movies from the 1970s. Based on Joseph Kosinski's unreleased graphic novel by the same name, the film was directed by him. The plot takes place in the year 2077 when aliens known as Scavengers have devastated Earth and driven humanity to Titan, Saturn's largest moon. The drones that are being used to combat the last few Scavengers need to be fixed, so a technician named Jack Harper is sent to Earth in order to do it. After coming upon a spacecraft accident and saving a survivor, Harper is taken by the Scavengers and forced to battle for his life against an extra-terrestrial menace that has just emerged. Oblivion is similarly a vision of Earth's future as well as the human race in far-off space, where humanity needs to be saved, despite the fact that it may not look anything like Interstellar.

Tenet

Tenet

The premise revolved around a more realistic world of agents and supervillains with a time travel element in Christopher Nolan's comeback to the sci-fi genre, which was equally as ambitious and challenging as Interstellar. The enormous scale setpieces can occasionally feel a little overpowering because some things and individuals in the movie move in the opposite direction of time. But if the viewer just gives in and relies on Nolan's storytelling prowess, it's just as entertaining and engaging as Interstellar.

The Fountain

*Movies Like Interstellar For Those who like Unique Sci-fi Movies - The Fountain

In this gripping and heartfelt love drama starring Hugh Jackman that follows his life through time, space, and tales within tales, director and writer Darren Aronofsky merged several unique genres. A lot is going on in The Fountain for the audience to process, but it all works together amazingly well thanks in large part to Matthew Libatique's spectacular cinematography. The Fountain is a conquistador's journey as he searches for the tree of life, part contemporary weepy about getting married and disease, part arthouse sci-fi film about a spooky monk trying to deliver a tree through the world in a bubble to access the heart of a dying star.

Looper

Looper

Before tackling the Star Wars universe with The Last Jedi, Rian Johnson explored sci-fi, and many people believe that his time-travel thriller Looper is a great film. When Bruce Willis' elder self is brought back in time to be assassinated by his younger self, Joseph Gordon-Levitt and Willis play the same contract killer in the not-too-distant tomorrow as they battle the mob and one another for survival. Looper is an exhilarating rollercoaster that compels the viewer to use their brains, packed with all the unexpected twists that the writer would become so renowned for with Knives Out and The Last Jedi.

Also Read: 10 Movies Similar to Harry Potter